The Children's Aid Society worker that was involved with him noted the great improvements he has made.

Patti saw a need for parents to have support for case conferences. A package was put together for parents to help them through the process. Lynda noted the work that has been done and the progress made has been noticed, valued and appreciated. The package will also be taken to RSEC in May. Dennis suggested a report be put together at the beginning of 2010 to show how well this material has been received, using parent feedback.
- c. “Nobody” Resource Presentation
Terre introduced the Nobody project, piloting in a few of our schools. The class as a whole is to turn “Nobody” into “somebody”. The project is linked to Rotary. Trish Kings has been asked if a presentation could be made to Brantford Rotary to see if they would give financial support to the project. Currently we have 8 kits. Each Child & Youth Worker has one and is to use it where they see a need.
- d. Mental Health Week
Terre informed the committee of a project the department is working on. There is a book regarding mental health that Dave Szuty suggested we digitalize. A board arts consultant contributed music and sound effects to the project. The author is pleased with the work being done. Terre also explained the poster contest that is being done to support Mental Health Week.

Terre followed up on how parents can access assistive technology software from home.

2) Superintendent of Education Report • Bill Chopp

There will be no more temporary Educational Assistants for the school year. Once completed, a budget will be presented to the committee.

SCHOOL EFFECTIVENESS FRAMEWORK & PROCESS 2008 - 09 Public Session

BACKGROUND INFORMATION:

In the fall of 2007, the Literacy & Numeracy Secretariat introduced the School Effectiveness Framework in an effort to support Boards in working with their schools to identify strengths, areas of improvement, and next steps in four key areas:

- Student Learning and Achievement
- Instructional Leadership
- Assessment and Evaluation
- Curriculum and Instructional Strategies.

Boards could also identify other components based on local needs, for example, mission, vision and values, school culture, interpersonal relationships, home, school and community partnerships, as well as student leadership and engagement.

The School Effectiveness Framework supported school Board analysis and improvement planning through two major components:

- The School Self-Assessment Process; and
- The District Review Process.

To facilitate the school self-assessment process and the district review process, funds were provided for a School Effectiveness Lead as well as school-based release time for School Improvement Teams.

Leslie Telfer, as the School Effectiveness Lead, guided the principals and the School Improvement Teams through the school self-assessment process with the expectation that each school provide a summary report of its findings identifying strengths, areas requiring improvement, and next steps to improve student achievement.

The District Review process took place in three schools: Notre Dame Brantford, Notre Dame Caledonia, and Resurrection School.

The District Review Team, comprised of Superintendents Bill Chopp and Trish Kings, Principal of Program, Maureen Wills, School Effectiveness Lead, Leslie Telfer and Elementary Program Consultants, Lisa Kuyper and Karen Wilkinson, visited each school and looked for evidence to support the indicators identified in the School Effectiveness Framework. The District Review Team looked for patterns and trends in student work and instructional strategies across grades and schools. Each staff was provided with a District Review Report Summary of observed strengths, areas for improvement, and next steps.

Both processes, the school self-assessment and the district review, formed the catalyst in the development of the Elementary Improvement Plan.

DEVELOPMENTS:

During the 2008 – 09 school year, the Literacy & Numeracy Secretariat expected Boards to continue both processes, the school self-assessment and district reviews. Funds were provided for the continuation of the School Effectiveness Lead position.

The essential self-assessment components remained the same for most schools, utilizing their findings in the development of their School Improvement Plans for 2008 – 09. These schools are now in the process of reviewing their growth in each area as part of the School Improvement Planning cycle.

The District Review Team from 2007 – 08 was expanded to include, Joe DiFrancesco, Principal of Notre Dame School, Caledonia. Six (6) schools were identified to be part of a review for 2008 – 09: Blessed Sacrament, Holy Family, St. Joseph, St. Michael Dunnville, St. Michael Walsh, and St. Stephen.

For the schools involved in the District Reviews for 2008 – 09, revisions to the School Effectiveness Framework were incorporated with the Essential Components remaining the same but the indicators reduced from sixty-two to twenty-one as directed by the Literacy and Numeracy Secretariat.

A similar process for the District Reviews was followed as in the previous year:

- An initial visit with the principal and staff outlining the process;
- A visit by the team; and
- A written summary of findings.

Following the reviews, all six (6) schools participated in a joint session in which the following was presented:

- An overview of patterns and trends related to the essential components through the team's observations; and
- Identified next steps for improvement.

Ongoing sessions provided opportunities to further the conversations, grade-by-grade as well as school-by-school in order to clarify understandings with respect to next steps related to student achievement through research-based strategies.

The overall findings from the school self-assessment, the District Review process, and various data sources will assist with the development of a revised Board Improvement Plan and School Improvement Plans for 2009 – 2010.

RECOMMENDATION:

THAT the Committee of the Whole recommend the Brant Haldimand Norfolk Catholic District School Board receive the report on the School Effectiveness Framework and Process for 2008 – 09.

SUPPORTING SEAMLESS TRANSITIONS FOR THE AUTISM INTERVENTION PROGRAM TO SCHOOL

Regular Session

BACKGROUND INFORMATION:

The Ministries of Education and Children and Youth Services are continuing to work closely together to improve the continuity of supports for children and youth with autism as they move into and through school. The successful transition of students with autism to school is consistent with the government's overall priority of success for students.

DEVELOPMENTS

To improve outcomes for students with autism spectrum disorder (ASD) and their families, we are pleased to confirm the next steps for our latest collaborative initiative, which is focused on achieving seamless transitions from the Autism Intervention Program to school. Once fully implemented, this initiative will improve support for students with ASD who are transitioning from intensive behavioural intervention (IBI) services delivered through the Autism Intervention Program to applied behaviour analysis (ABA) instructional methods in school.

In response to the February 2007 recommendations of the Ministers' Autism Spectrum Disorders Reference Group regarding the most effective ways to meet the needs of students with ASD in Ontario schools, our ministries continue to take steps to build on the foundational collaborative work which included:

- Release of PPM 140, Incorporating Methods of Applied Behaviour Analysis (ABA) into Programs for Students with Autism Spectrum Disorders (ASD), to establish a policy framework to incorporate ABA into school boards' practices;
- Extensive opportunities and funding for training and professional learning about ABA for school board teams, school teams, principals, teachers and education assistants; and
- Beginning in 2008-09 all school boards will receive new funding to hire additional board level ABA expertise to support principals, teachers, and multi-disciplinary transition teams by providing and coordinating ASD training and resources, and facilitating collaboration between service providers and schools.

Board allocations will be calculated on a base plus enrolment model, accompanied by a list of suggested ABA expertise competencies.

These additional and/or re-aligned resources will support a more comprehensive implementation of the transition processes that are required in PPM 140. Our expectation is that school boards will use the additional funding for ABA expertise to enhance the work they are already doing with their community partners to support children and youth transitioning from the AIP to school, and to make more supports available to these students and other students with ASD throughout their school years.

The Brant Haldimand Norfolk Catholic District School Board has received $48,092 for the school year 2008-2009 and for the 2009-2010 school year.

The Special Education department has presently identified 51 elementary students and 20 secondary students to be within the autism spectrum. It has also recognized that an additional 5 students with autism will be entering our district in September 2009.

In light of the funding designated to hire additional temporary support, the Board will be able to provide training and coordination at the school and board level that will build capacity in the system. The additional hire will also work to enhance a collaboration and cooperation between service providers and school.

RECOMMENDATION:

THAT the Brant Haldimand Norfolk Catholic District School Board receive the report on supporting seamless transitions from the Autism Intervention Program to school.

MENTAL HEALTH AWARENESS

Regular Session

BACKGROUND INFORMATION:

Good mental health enables our students to think clearly, feel confident and act purposefully as they face life's challenges. Like physical health, mental health is crucial at every stage in life.

Mental health problems in children and youth can occur in any family, in any community. These problems are devastating to families, and costly to communities and the health care system. They can lead to school failure, family conflicts, drug abuse, violence or suicide. Biology, environment, or a mix of both can cause mental health problems in children and youth. Fortunately, mental health problems in children and youth can be successfully treated, preventing more costly difficulties later in life.

Early signs of mental health problems in children and youth include sudden changes in mood or behaviour; feelings of sadness or hopelessness that don't go away; avoidance of friends; constant anger and aggression; excessive crying and feelings of worthlessness; extreme and unrealistic fear or anxiety; and chronic inability to concentrate. More advanced symptoms include depression; substance abuse; loss of touch with reality; suicidal behaviour; violence; attention deficits; defiance. Studies show that, at any given time, at least once in five children and youth has a mental health problem.

DEVELOPMENTS:

The Special Education Department has been involved in various activities to raise the awareness of mental health issues of students in our schools. They are as follows:

- Two presentations by Sarah Cannon of Parents for Children's Mental Health, to all elementary school principals and the second to the entire special education department elementary/secondary staff.
- Participation by Terre Slaght on the Brant Steering Committee in planning awareness activities for Mental Health Awareness Week (May 2-9, 2009).

- An opportunity for participation by all of our schools in the district in Mental Health Awareness poster contest.
- Morning announcements included “Who Wants to be a Millionaire” at Assumption College School, which focused on raising awareness of mental health issues.
- A collaborative project with Dave Levac, Michael Pin, system resource staff, Parents for Children’s Mental Health, Gayle Grass and the Canadian Mental Health Association community organizations to produce a digital adaptation of the story Hole in One – a book written by Gayle Grass, on the topic of anxiety. This digital story will be used provincially by the Canadian Mental Health Association. As well a copy has been submitted to Kathleen Wynne, Minister of Education.
- Staff attendance at the Behind the Mask Conference – an examination of mental health issues in schools.

The next steps are for the Special Education Department to meet with the Curriculum Department to provide curriculum units to teachers on mental health issues that could be incorporated into classroom curriculum in both elementary and secondary.

RECOMMENDATION:

THAT the Brant Haldimand Norfolk Catholic District School Board receive the report on mental health awareness.

BALANCED SCHOOL DAY UPDATE

Public Session

BACKGROUND INFORMATION:

In June 2005, seven schools began to implement a balanced school day schedule:

Blessed Sacrament	Christ the King	St. Bernard of Clairvaux
St. Frances Cabrini	St. Gabriel's	St. Patrick (B)
St. Theresa

As of Sept 2008, the following schools implemented a balanced school day schedule:

Blessed Sacrament	Christ the King	Holy Cross
Notre Dame (B)	Our Lady of LaSalette	Our Lady of Providence
St. Bernard	St. Bernard of Clairvaux	St. Frances Cabrini
St. Gabriel's	St. Jean de Brebeuf	St. Joseph's
St. Leo	St. Mary (B)	St. Mary's (H)
St. Patrick (B)	St. Patrick's (C)	St. Theresa

DEVELOPMENTS:

It has been found that the large teaching blocks have provided teachers with a more focussed approach and that students tend to be more attentive. There seem to be fewer classroom management issues and fewer playground supervision and discipline issues.

A research study was done by staff on the original seven schools that engaged in balanced school day schedules. The purpose of the research was to determine if there is a correlation between the implementation of the balanced school day schedule and student achievement in reading on the Education Quality and Accountability Office (EQAO) provincial assessments. Analysis of the data retrieved, seems to reveal that the relation between the implementation of the balanced school day schedule and student achievement in reading on the EQAO provincial assessment is unrelated.

Our board will continue to study the effects on the balanced school day schedule on a number of factors: school climate, student parent and teacher satisfaction and student achievement.

In September 2009, 25 of our 32 elementary schools will be following a balanced school day schedule. While others schools may be interested in this format, there are many variables such as the number of staff available for supervision, that must be addressed when schools are considering the implementation of a Balanced School Day schedule.

RECOMMENDATION:

THAT the Committee of the Whole recommend the Brant Haldimand Norfolk Catholic District School Board receive the information on the Balanced School Day.

TWINNED SCHOOLS UPDATE

Public Session

BACKGROUND INFORMATION:

In September 2004, the following schools were organized as twinned schools:
Blessed Sacrament School in Burford and St. Anthony Daniel School in Scotland
Our Lady of Fatima School in Courtland and Our Lady of LaSalette School in LaSalette

In September 2005, the following schools were organized as twinned:
Holy Family School and Sacred Heart School in Paris
St. Mary's School in Hagersville and St. Stephen's School in Cayuga
St. Cecilia's School in Port Dover and St. Michael School in Walsh

In September 2007, the following schools were organized as twinned schools:
St. Mary's and Holy Cross in Brantford

Each of these twinned school organizations consisted of a full time principal responsible for both schools posted at one site and a vice principal with some teaching responsibility at the other school.

In September 2007, Sacred Heart in Paris was de-twinned from Holy Family School in anticipation of the construction of a new facility.

In September 2008, St. Mary's in Hagersville and St. Stephen's in Cayuga were de-twinned.

DEVELOPMENTS:

The organization has provided the opportunity for experienced principals to mentor and direct new administrators. A review of the impact on school communities would indicate a positive outcome for the professional growth of vice principals and effective operation and leadership for the schools.

The Ministry's existing funding formula provides for a full-time Principal in elementary schools of 365 FTE students and .75 Vice Principal for 1000 students. As our Board has only four schools that meet the criteria for a full-time Principal and 21 schools with less than 200 projected FTE students, there are limited opportunities for administrative experience prior to assuming the principalship.

This model has served us well for the past 5 years as a training ground for our principals. Given the number of years our vice principals have served and the training they have received it warrants reconsideration of our twinned schools. St. Michael's in Walsh and St. Cecilia's in Port Dover, with a combined enrolment of 328 would benefit from a consistent and permanent principal at each school building.

RECOMMENDATION:

THAT the Brant Haldimand Norfolk Catholic District School Board approve the de-twinning of St. Cecilia's Catholic elementary School, Port Dover and St. Michael's Catholic Elementary School, Walsh effective September 2009.

2009-2010 STUDENT TRUSTEE
Public Session

BACKGROUND INFORMATION:

Provisions outlining the process for electing a Student Trustee for the Brant Haldimand Norfolk Catholic District School Board are outlined in Board Policy 100.7. Details can be found at the following URL: http://www.bhncdsb.ca/files/policies/student_trustee_100_7.pdf.

DEVELOPMENTS:

On April 30th, 2009, the election process for the 2009-10 student trustee took place at the Catholic Education Centre. The following candidates made excellent presentations to an eager group of student representatives that comprised the interview panel:

ABORIGINAL EDUCATION INITIATIVES

BACKGROUND INFORMATION

Assumption College School has created (over time) many innovative programs to support the needs of our aboriginal students. The program has grown and has, in many ways, exemplified best practice especially in relation to easing the transition between elementary school and secondary school.

DEVELOPMENTS

Recently, the Ministry of Education has released a document entitled Ontario First Nations, Métis, and Inuit Education Policy Framework. The goal of the framework is consistent with the goals of our Student Success initiatives for all students:

- To promote high levels of student achievement.
- To reduce gaps in student achievement
- Instill high levels of public confidence.

There are a number of unique programs that are in place at Assumption College School that have been implemented to achieve these goals. The school has a Native Education Counselor that works alongside aboriginal students and their families to promote high levels of student achievement. The school has implemented a number of Native Studies courses that provide students with a broad range of knowledge related to First Nation, Métis, and Inuit peoples to help them better understand Aboriginal issues of public interest. Other programs in place include transition programs between elementary and secondary schools, activities to promote appropriate post-secondary pathways, the “Building Bridges” symposium and mentorship/leadership programs.

RECOMMENDATION:

THAT the Brant Haldimand Norfolk Catholic District School Board receive the report entitled Aboriginal Education Initiatives.
